In Wheeling With a Goodly Attendance from a Number of Neighboring Towns - Several Interesting Questions Discussed by the Pedagogues Yesterday, and Still Others Will be

The Ohlo Valley Round Table, an organization of school superintendents and principals, opened a two days' session in Wheeling yesterday afternoon, at the High School hall, with a large attendance of visitors from points in this state, eastern Ohlo and western Pennsylvania.

Among those present were Messrs. Williams, Plummer and Chamberlin, of Marietta; Merrick, of Cadiz; Mertz, of Steubenville; Thompson, of Salesville; Williams, of Moundsville; Carrigan and Gorman, of Benwood; Githens, of Wells-Gorman, of Benwood; Githens, of Wellsburg; Jacobs and Shaw, of West Liberty; Stewart, of Martin's Ferry; Hall, of New Martinsville; Scamahorn, of Brilliant, and Miss Callie Curtis, of West Liberty.

On motion of Professor J. M. Hammond, Principal C. S. Brilles, of Wash-Ington school, was elected chairman. The first subject on the programme, "State your method of teaching history; what it is special value," was taken up and the discussion opened by Prof. F. H. Crago, principal of Ritchie school. He favored the topical method. He urged that the great object in the study of history is character building. H. B. Work, principal of the High School, spoke at length on the importance of the study. Professor Turner spoke of methods; he favored map-building, showing the growth of our country, its wars and their causes. After Mr. Turner's talk the chairman called on the ladles for their methods of teaching, urging them to make themselves useful as well as ornamental. Miss Reeves spoke at some length, urging the Introduction of outside matter to make the dry pages of the text book more interesting. D. T. Williams, superintendent of Moundaville schools, spoke instructively, urging the teaching by blography. Quite a number of others spoke on the subject.

The second topic, "How do you develop the power of independent thinking?" was called up by Superintendent Anderson. Prof. J. E. Lewis said that one way was to ask a question not found in the text book, something that will require at least some thought. Principal Gwynn, of Madison school, said that a thing should be made very plain to the child before it can think at its the teacher's highest duty to develop the power of independent thinking. An external cause is found in the homes; the parents do not see the necessity of a high school education.

Superintendent Work, of the Wheeling High School, said that the high school is trying to do too much work. Our best high schools are equivalent to what Harvard and Yale were 199 years ago. Our high school courses are not near enough to the people. Superintendent Williams, of Marietta, spoke of how to keep the boys through the grammar school. He says that five times as many drop out of the fraimmar schools as drop out of the high schools. The Round Table adjourned to meet at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The following questions will be discussed to-day:

The deceased was born in Klagwood, Preston county, and his father, John S. Murdock, is living at Kingwood and has reached the ripe old age of eightynine years. Mr. Murdock has three brothers in Kingwood and two brothers and two sisters at Ironton, Ohio. In 1865 he was married to Miss Amanda Stevens, of this city, who is left to mourn his loss, with two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Fawcett, wife of Dr. Fawcett, and Miss Mollie Murdock.
